Out of pocket cost to patient: Nil***

**This excludes any fee for ambulance transfer to hospital. This service is operated by St John Ambulance which operates separately from Urgent Care. Any potential ambulance fee will be invoiced by St John Ambulance directly.*

FAQS*Why don't you bulk bill?

Bulk billing is when the doctor accepts the Medicare rebate paid by the government as full payment for the medical service provided.

Unfortunately, the Medicare rebate hasn't kept up with inflation making it increasingly difficult to cover the costs of providing a high quality medical service and has strained the viability of St John Urgent Care offering bulk billing to our patients.

The graph below illustrates how the cost of healthcare has steadily risen while the Medicare rebate has lagged.

How do other clinics manage to bulk bill all patients?

Some clinics manage to bulk bill all patients by offering shorter consultations and increasing the number of consultations per hour. This is possible because the Medicare rebate remains the same regardless of whether a consultation lasts six minutes or 15 minutes.

At St John Urgent Care, our focus is providing high quality, patient centred care. We prioritise time with each patient to ensure they feel heard, supported and respected. This commitment to comprehensive, compassionate care is reflected in the way we structure our consults even if it means we can't bulk bill.

What does the upfront fee include?

The upfront fee covers your consultation and basic consumables (e.g. dressings, stitches, glue). Additional fees apply for specific treatments or equipment such as crutches or splints.

Why is there a different fee on weekends and public holidays?

Consultations on weekends and public holidays incur a higher fee due to increased operational costs during these periods including higher staff wages.
